

Satisfactory Debt Accord With Italy Seen by Coolidge

Secretary Mellon Presumed To Have Laid Informal Proposal Before President at Conference.

SMOOT FORESEES EARLY FUNDING

U. S. Representatives See Determined Effort on Part of Count Volpi To Reach Agreement.

Washington, November 6.—A mutually satisfactory settlement of the Italian debt is expected by President Coolidge.

The executive's belief that Italy will fund its $2,000,000,000 war obligations was expressed at the white house Friday afternoon after the president had conferred with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Senator Smoot, member of the American debt funding commission.

Both the United States and Italy are discussing the problem with "utmost candor," it was said, in behalf of the president, and where such questions are candidly discussed, settlement is bound to come, he believes.

Told by Mellon, Smoot.

Secretary Mellon and Smoot are presumed to have laid before the president an informal proposal said to have been submitted by the Italian commission Friday, together with informal conversations offered by the American commission.

The funding negotiations are expected to be concluded within a week or 10 days, in the belief of Senator Smoot.

President Coolidge was represented as being particularly pleased with the progress of the negotiations. There is every indication that settlement can be reached, it was said for the president.

Secretary Mellon and Senator Smoot impressed the executive that there is a determined disposition on the part of Count Volpi and his associates to reach an early agreement.

Winston Not So Optimistic.

In spite of the optimism of the white house, Undersecretary of the Treasury Winston declared late Friday that the problem of settlement was still in a negotiation stage.

That a meeting of minds is not as imminent, as some express the belief, was further indicated by the fact that the United States will open discussions with the Rumanian debt commission before it again meets with the Italian representatives.

Neither the American nor the Italian debt commissions will meet again until, at the earliest, Monday afternoon. Monday morning, the Rumanian commission will open discussions with the Americans, leading toward a settlement of Rumania's $400,000,000 obligation to the United States.

Doubtful of Formal Proposal.

It is considered very doubtful whether the Americans and the Italians have reached a point where the United States commission will open to entertain any formal proposal for a settlement from Mussolini's government.

The subcommittees of both nations held meetings Friday to further discuss the basis for a settlement, which, it is understood, is being held up by the failure of the Americans to concede that Italy's problem of transfer is as great as Italy would desire the American commission to believe.

The American commission held a meeting late Friday. The announcement of an adjournment over Sunday was made following this meeting.

U. S. Attorney May Padlock Club of Elks

Employees Are Summoned Before Federal Grand Jury for Quizzing.

New York, November 6.—(AP)—Possibility of padlock for the Elks' club, lodge No. 1, on West 43rd street, was intensified today when the head waiter, cashier, managing clerk and 11 waiters were subpoenaed to appear before the federal grand jury.

U. S. Attorney Emory R. Buckner declined to affirm or deny that padlock proceedings were contemplated. He said he treated all places that were complained of alike.

Edward W. McNeal, former assistant United States attorney, counsel for the club, declared emphatically that the Elks' club lodge would not consent to a padlock, that it was a charitable and fraternal organization, that the prohibition law had never been violated, and that the effort to proceed against it would be fought every inch of the way.

GOVERNMENT SUES WILLIAM G. M'ADOO FOR TAX OF $58.93

Los Angeles, November 6.—(AP)—The federal government filed suit here today against William Gibbs McAdoo, defeated candidate for the democratic presidential nomination prior to the last election, for $58.93. This amount, the government alleges, still is due on the McAdoo 1924 income tax.

VOLSTEAD SAYS TO PROSECUTE LIQUOR BUYERS

Father of Dry Law Declares Use of 'Teeth' in Prohibition Act Will Suppress Rum.

LIQUOR PURCHASERS FACE PRISON TERM

Deportation of Alien Bootleggers Urged in Talk Before Anti-Saloon League Convention.

Chicago, November 6.—(AP)—There are teeth in the Volstead act which are little used or not at all, but which would make prohibition enforcement far more effective, Andrew J. Volstead, former congressman and father of the prohibition law, told the Anti-Saloon League's convention tonight.

He recently returned to public life as legal adviser of the prohibition director for Minnesota.

It is not generally known, Mr. Volstead said, but the purchaser of illicit liquor is subject to 90 days imprisonment and for a second offense not to exceed two years.

Urges Prosecution.

"It would have a salutary effect, to prosecute some of these purchasers so that the country might know some of the so-called 'good people' are simply in the bootleg class. This provision is contained in section 29 of title two of the prohibition act.

"Section 23 of title 11 of the act provides that in issuing permits for warehouses or plants for industrial use of alcohol, the acts authorized, may be specifically designated and limited.

"This is a power that has been very sparingly used, and still it is one that seems to me might be very effective. It was the subject of a very bitter contest in congress.

Half Preparation.

"It is believed that it would give the government the right to adopt almost any means to prevent alcoholic preparations to be sold for beverage purposes. To enforce this provision, it might be provided in the permit that if the purchaser diverted any article containing alcohol to illegal use, the permit might be cancelled.

"Since the coast guard has been increased, the bootlegger has turned to denatured alcohol and I am greatly inclined to think that less than 90 per cent of the liquor now in the illicit trade is redistilled alcohol.

"The section referred to also provides that the government may require an applicant for a permit to establish a warehouse or plant using alcohol, the need for the kind of a plant in prospect. This is a section that the trade has fought very bitterly, and I know that many who claim to be legitimate manufacturers and dealers object strenuously to any such restriction. But as long as alcohol is constantly being diverted to illegal use, they cannot reasonably complain against necessary regulations. They are in bad company.

Liquor Taxation.

"In drafting the prohibition act, a section was inserted to preserve the laws then in existence regulating the manufacture, taxation of, and traffic in, intoxicating liquor which had been developed as the result of more than a half century of experience. A district attorney in the prosecution of persons operating illegal stills, should have the cases avail himself of these laws, as they carry much heavier penalties than the national prohibition act.

"In drafting to emphasize one thing in the enforcement of this law. No pains should be spared to secure penalties that are sufficiently drastic so as to make it unprofitable to continue in the illegal business. It is idle to attempt restraint simply by imposing a fine. That is nothing but a license and the judge who imposes it is little better than a bribe.

Six Members Of One Family Die in Fire

Girl of Nine Is Only Survivor as Bungalow Burns.

Balston Spa, New York, November 6.—(AP)—Six members of one family were burned to death by fire which destroyed a bungalow today. The sole survivor is in a critical condition.

The dead: George Kemp, 45; Mrs. George Kemp; Viola Allen, 14; Myrtle Allen, 12; Carline Allen, 10; Marion Kemp, 11.

The Allens were children of Mrs. Kemp by a previous marriage. Beatrice Kemp, 9, sole survivor of the family, escaped with her clothing in flames. As she leaped through a window she heard a sister crying for help.

She summoned neighbors, but they and the firemen found the bungalow a furnace. The nearest hydrant was a quarter of a mile away.

When the flames died down the bodies were found huddled in one room of the one-story bungalow. From the position of the bodies, a doctor judged Kemp had found a way of escape and had turned back to find the rest of his family when flames closed their way out.

Committee Votes Repeal of Income Tax Publicity Law

Reduction of Estate Taxes From 40 To 20 Per Cent Also Is Approved by Vote of Committee

GIFT TAX PROVISION IS STRICKEN OUT

Work of Ways and Means Committee Nears Conclusion as Almost Total Agreement Is Reached.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER, United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, November 6.—(AP)—Repeal of the income tax publicity law has been voted by the house ways and means committee.

This action was taken Friday in the course of the committee's work in drafting a tax reduction bill.

It proposes to strike from the statute books the compulsory publicity clause, which has caused more indignation and criticism than any act of congress since the Volstead law. The chief complaint has been that it exposed the personal finances of individuals to salesmen, business rivals, and curious individuals without fulfilling its ostensible purpose, which was to reduce tax evasion through publicity.

While deciding to prohibit further publication of income tax payments by individuals, the committee voted to retain provisions of the present law, authorizing publication of the names and addresses of income taxpayers, and opening the returns to inspection by the house ways and means committee, senate finance committee or any special committee appointed by congress for that purpose.

Inserted in 1923.

The publicity clause was inserted in the present tax law in 1923 through the pressure of the La Follette insurgent group, which held the balance of power in both houses then. They received democratic support and the aid of some progressive republicans. President Coolidge protested with much vehemence against this clause in signing the bill. With the republicans safely in control in both houses, it is probable now that the repeal favored by the house committee will succeed.

In addition to this action, the committee also refused Secretary Mellon's request that estate taxes be abolished or compromised by cutting the present 40 per cent maximum in half. Retention of this source of revenue was forecast Thursday when the committee raised the exemptions on the little taxpayer.

One other significant change was voted by the committee. The entire gift tax provision was stricken out, and a substitute inserted, which subjects to the estate tax any property conveyed within two years of the death of the testator without receipt of any consideration.

The committee agreed that estates will be credited up to 80 per cent of any estate taxes paid to states. Tobacco excise were acted upon but the committee declined to reveal its action.

14 STOLEN AUTOS ARE RECOVERED

Five Others Are Located. W. D. Yarborough Is Indicted by Grand Jury on Six Counts.

W. D. Yarborough, display window dresser, was indicted Friday by a Fulton county grand jury on six counts charging larceny of automobiles.

The indictments were drawn following the arrest Thursday of Yarborough by A. Lamar Poole and S. A. Smith, city detectives, who are said to have recovered six automobiles in McDonough.

Detectives announced Friday night that Yarborough had admitted a number of additional automobile thefts and that 14 automobiles had been recovered and five others which he is said to have stolen have been located.

Probe Follows Arrest.

The investigation which led to his indictment followed his arrest last Monday by Patrolmen Brackett and Sewell on Courtland street on charges of drunkenness, disorderly conduct and possession of whisky. The officers are said to have been given a "tip" by a woman. Yarborough gave his name as Bill Lockett when arrested.

With Yarborough at the time and arrested on the same charges was Henry Holland, 26, of 79 Merritt avenue. Upon investigation the officers are alleged to have found a half gallon of whisky in the car.

Both men acted queerly about the automobile, police said, and the detectives were asked to investigate. When questioned Holland admitted ownership of the machine, but said he bought it from Yarborough.

Detectives then obtained an admission from Yarborough that he had stolen the car.

ENGINEER STAGES ROBBERY OF BANK TO ESCAPE PRISON

Caught in Hour After Hold-Up, Dayton Man Declares Theft Was To Pay Government Fines.

$10,000 IS KEPT ONLY FOUR HOURS

Entire Case Closely Parallels That of 'Phantom Bandit,' Another Dayton Business Man.

Dayton, Ohio, November 6.—(AP)—Threatened with a term in prison either way he turned, Elliot Gabler, 30, president of the Gem City Engineering company, today attempted to emulate another Dayton business man and fight his way out of financial difficulties by staging a bank robbery.

Gabler staged a daylight, downtown robbery of H. J. Kloos, manager of a branch bank in East Dayton, obtaining possession for four hours of $10,000 in currency of small denomination.

Gabler in his confession said he had first noticed Kloos in the bank a month ago, obtained his automobile license number, followed him and then observed his action and routes. A week ago, he attempted the robbery when he cut the feed line in Kloos' automobile, but there was sufficient gasoline in the vacuum tank to get the bank manager to his branch.

Makes His Work Sure.

This morning Gabler made the work more sure. Not only did he disconnect the feed line while Kloos' automobile stood in front of the bank at the main street intersection of the city, but at the point of heaviest traffic. This done, he placed a rag in the vacuum tank, leaving just enough fuel to take Kloos out of the congested district.

Following his designated victim from the bank, Gabler drove up when Kloos' automobile stalled seven squares from the bank. Ordering the manager into his own car, Gabler drove to the city limits.

Gabler then forced the banker from the automobile, threatening his life if he attempted to follow. Kloos disregarded and followed, drawing a volley of shots, none of which took effect.

Within an hour after the robbery, Gabler was in custody and identified by his victim. He maintained his innocence, threatening his life if he attempted to follow. Kloos disregarded and followed, drawing a volley of shots, none of which took effect.

"I had to go to prison anyway," he said.

FIVE GIRLS ILL; GAS SUSPECTED

All Rushed To Grady Hospital, Where Three Respond Readily To Emergency Treatment.

Five young women were given first-aid treatment at Grady hospital Friday afternoon and two were admitted for treatment after a sudden and violent illness. All became ill while they were at work at a candy shop at Marietta and Means street.

Miss Lola Dorough, 17, of 42 Forrest street, and Miss Irene Knight, 17, of 15 Richards street, were admitted for treatment. Miss Annie Mae Ellis, 16, of 16 Whittaker street; Miss Mary Wheeler, 17, of 121 West Merritt avenue, and Mrs. J. H. Daniel, 20, of 138 East avenue were given first aid.

Although the cause of the illness has not been determined, it is believed that escaping gas fumes caused the illness. Two of the girls fainted while at work and the others became violently ill soon afterwards.

J. B. Coppedge, vice-president and general manager of the factory, said that he was unable to detect any gas fumes in the factory. He said he understood two of the young women had eaten some wafers for lunch and that they became ill as a result.

The girls were employed at the factory to stir candy which is cooked over gas stoves. All five were at work close together.

Miss Dorough and Miss Knight were hysterical for several hours after treatment. The other three girls responded to first-aid treatment readily.

'MERCY SLAYER' OF DAUGHTER GOES ON TRIAL

Father's Right To Kill Deformed Daughter Denied by Fiery Prosecuting Attorney.

RESISTS DEFENSE GIRL HAD NO SOUL

Two Suicide Notes Written by Father to Younger Daughter Are Read to Jury by State Attorney.

Littleton, Colo., November 6.—(AP) Word pictures of Hazel Blazer—described by the defense as a "human husk" without a soul and by the prosecution as a "spark of humanity"—were painted in court today in an effort to convict Dr. Harold Elmer Blazer on a charge of murdering his daughter.

The physician sat unmoved as he heard himself described as the daughter's slayer by Prosecutor Joel Stone.

"We shall prove," Stone declared, "that Blazer slew his daughter; that he was not and never has been insane; that he endeavored to hide the crime by attempting suicide twice. We shall show that he knew from his knowledge of medicine and the body that neither of his attempts to end life by poison or by slashing his throat would prove fatal."

Resist Proof About Soul.

Mr. Stone said he would resist any attempt of the defense to prove the girl had no soul.

"Hazel Blazer may not have been able to talk or walk, but who is there to say that she could not feel?" he asked.

"Her affliction was the result of apical meningitis. Medical authorities will show that this disease often destroys and distorts the human frame but it does not destroy the brain nor the soul.

"The killing of Hazel Blazer was a deliberate, well-planned murder." Lewis D. Mowry, chief of defense counsel, said he would reserve his opening remarks until the state had rested.

Lower Limbs Undeveloped.

Descriptions offered by the witnesses of the girl included: "Dr. W. S. Dennis, who performed an autopsy: 'Probably over 30 years of age, about 4 feet in height and weighing around 90 pounds. She was fairly well developed from the waist up, but the under development of lower limbs was marked.'"

Roy Bishop, son-in-law of the defendant, said: "A scrap of breathing flesh, unable to feed, clothe or otherwise care for her own personal needs. The only exercise she ever got was when she was placed on the floor when the weather was warm and allowed to roll around. She was absolutely helpless and depended on Dr. Blazer alone."

Preachers Condemn Murders.

Two leading clergymen of Colorado—Bishop J. Henry Thien, of the Roman Catholic church, and Bishop O'Connor, of the Protestant Episcopal church—in newspaper interviews today spoke emphatically against the justification of taking human life, even though that of an imbecile.

Dr. Dennis said it was his opinion that the girl was poisoned or chloroformed.

"There were no marks of violence on the body," he said.

Blazer's son-in-law, Bishop, was asked: "Did Dr. Blazer talk to you the night of the crime after you discovered the body of Hazel?"

"Yes, he kept mumbling—'Sorry—'"

Plot To Overthrow All Italian Rulers Revealed by Paper

BOYKIN TO SEND FOR TWO 'BUNCO' MEN IN ENGLAND

TWO MEN SOUGHT FOR SEVERAL YEARS

Arrest by Scotland Yard Detectives Ends Long Trail of Men Through Many Countries.

Bert Donaldson To Go for Charles McCord and George Kennedy, Held in London.

London, November 6.—(AP)—Already around by the thwarted plans to assassinate their premier, the people of Rome were further stirred today when it became known through a detailed report, published by the usually well informed Epoca, that the assassination was only a detail of a general conspiracy, calling not only for the death of Mussolini and the overthrow of the fascist government, but the fall of The House of Savoy and the setting up of an Italian republic.

The source of the Epoca's statements is not made public, but there is not even a hint that it came from governmental sources.

According to the paper, Roberto Farinacci, secretary of the fascist party was the first to learn of the existence of the plot. He gave all the information he had to Minister of Interior Luigi Federzoni, who assumed personal direction of the plans to detect its origin and follow its developments.

Orders Conspirators Shadowed.

From the moment the minister became aware of the plot some time ago, he ordered that all those suspected of being implicated be shadowed by detectives. On Saturday, says the report, the former socialist, Deputy Zaniboni, who, the police assert, was also one of the conspirators, left Mantua in the company of three men. The automobile, driven by Zaniboni himself, proceeded in the direction of Rome, followed by another car occupied by detectives.

Zaniboni and his friends, who are not named, but who are said to have been shadowed by the police, stopped along the road a few miles from Rome. They disappeared into a thick pine grove where Zaniboni practiced for a long time shooting at a target with a specially equipped rifle, the target being placed about 100 yards away.

The practice succeeded so well, the report goes on, that the others congratulated Zaniboni on his marksmanship. He then drove the car into Rome and took lodgings in an obscure rooming house near St. Peter. His

Several weeks ago Mr. Candler suffered an attack of gastric trouble, and he had slightly improved until Monday, when he suffered a relapse. Mr. Candler went to Europe last summer in the hope of improving his health.

CATTLE TICK ROW IN FULTON COURTS

Mandamus proceedings to compel Dr. Peter F. Bahsen, state veterinarian, to rid a portion of Colquitt county of cattle tick in order that a quarantine now in force against that county may be lifted, were instituted Friday in Fulton superior court by officials of that county. Hearing on the case was set for November 21 by Judge John D. Humphries.

The petition sets forth that Colquitt county was freed of cattle ticks in 1923 and an earlier quarantine lifted. However, in August, 1925, a small infestation of ticks was found in a part of the county near the Thomas county line, and the quarantine again was imposed. It is claimed that this works a serious hardship on the county, preventing shipment of any cattle to or from the county. It is declared that it is the duty of the state veterinarian to free the county of cattle ticks and asks immediate action to that end in order that the quarantine may be lifted. Attorney James I. Dowling, of Moultrie, filed the petition, representing officials of Colquitt county.

Oxford Students To Meet Emory Debaters Tonight

Picked debaters from Oxford university, England, will meet an Emory university team at 8 o'clock tonight in the theological chapel at Emory. The subject will be "Resolved, That this house favors the recognition of the existing regime in Russia."

In keeping with the English custom of debating, the audience will act as judges and decide the question on the merits of the argument presented. The Oxford team, which is on a tour of the United States, will furnish two negative speakers and one affirmative, while Emory will furnish one affirmative and two negative. Members of the Oxford team, who are former presidents of the Oxford debating union, are H. V. Lloyd-Jones; R. H. Bernays and H. J. S. Wedderburn.

The Englishmen have met 15 of the large universities of the east and west, and from Atlanta will go to New York to debate Columbia university Monday night, with Smith college, at Northampton, Mass., as the final debate of the tour. Emory speakers will be: J. Q. Maxwell of Hogsheadville, Ralph Williams, of Griffin, and D. A. Lockmiller, of Athens, Tenn. The latter will take the affirmative, while the first two will support the negative.

G. F. & A. RAILWAY SEEKS TO ISSUE $750,000 BONDS

The Georgia, Florida and Alabama Railway company filed a petition Friday with the Georgia public service commission for authority to issue $750,000 in equipment trust certificates.

Proceeds of the issue are to be used as part payment on new equipment for the road which includes 280 steel underframe box cars, three all-steel passenger coaches, three all-steel combination passenger and mail cars and two steel combination baggage and express cars.

Balance of payment for this equipment is to be met by allowance on a quantity of old equipment.

Decatur Trolley Fare Agreement Seen at Meeting

Settlement of the long-standing dispute between the city of Decatur and the Georgia Railway & Power company, in regard to the five-cent fare contract under which the North Decatur car line is operated, is expected to result from a mass meeting of citizens of Decatur. The meeting has been called for Monday night in the DeKalb county courthouse, by the Decatur city commission and will consider a compromise proposal which has been made during negotiations for amicable settlement of the differences.

Under the compromise suggested, the Georgia Railway & Power company will establish a motor bus line between Decatur and Emory university, will pay its share of paving costs in Decatur and, in return, will be allowed to establish a seven-cent fare on the North Decatur line, instead of the five-cent fare now in force.

No action for definite settlement of the dispute, either on this proposal or any other, will be taken by the Decatur city commission until after the Monday mass meeting of citizens, it is stated.

The controversy between Decatur and the power company is of long standing. Under the original franchise for the operation of the North Decatur line, the fare was specified as the fare to be charged. The company, when mounting costs caused it to raise its fares on other lines in the city, the fare on the North Decatur line was raised to five cents. The city took out a temporary injunction against such action and hearing on the permanent injunction has been postponed from time to time.

Recently the company, by agreement with the city of College Park, which has a similar contract to that with Decatur, temporarily suspended the five-cent fare to that city and put the seven-cent fare. A temporary injunction in that case also prevents cessation of service, but the hearing of the plea for permanent injunction has been indefinitely postponed following the amicable settlement of the fare dispute between the power company and the College Park authorities.

GOVERNOR WALKER LEADS COLUMBUS INVASION FOR GAME

The state capitol will be well represented at the football game between the University of Georgia and Auburn in Columbus Saturday. Many officials and employees of the various departments of the state have arranged to witness the game and interest was high in the capitol building Friday afternoon.

Governor Clifford Walker led the Friday afternoon exodus for the Muscogee county capital. He is not expected back in his office before Tuesday, as he is scheduled to deliver an address on the educational needs of the state in the Lafayette courthouse on Monday.

The governor intimated before leaving, however, that he would probably announce his decision regarding the proposed extra session within a week or so after his return to the capitol. Representatives Fernor Barrett, of Stephens county, and J. W. Culpepper, of Fayette county, chairman of the general appropriations and judiciary committee, No. 1 of the house, respectively, both conferred with the governor Friday morning, while President Howard Ennis, of the state senate, saw the governor Thursday.

CHURCHES TO AID CHEST CAMPAIGN

Important facts of the 1925 Community Chest campaign will be placed before congregations of all Atlanta churches on the Sundays of November 8 and 15, if the written request of Dr. Thomas P. Hinman, chairman of the special committee of the chest campaign, to all the pastors, is acceded to. The campaign goal is for $666,000 and work will begin actively Monday, November 9.

The budget of $666,000 represents the minimum on which the city agencies in the chest can operate in 1926, Dr. Hinman stated in his letter to the pastors. "If it is not substantially raised," he said, "the result will be disintegration and a return to chaos in place of the well organized, coordinated and business-like administration now prevailing. In addition to this, the community will be faced with a higher cost of administration, for a multitude of campaigns, distressing to both workers and agencies."

"Atlanta has recently raised a large sum of money for advertising the city. This will be a sheer waste unless we can tell the world that we are adequately supporting our charitable and character-building institutions. To fail in this undertaking is unthinkable. That should be every man, woman and child should give his utmost, according to his means, whether those means permit but a ten, fifteen or twenty thousand dollars, as is done so largely in other cities."

McClung Is Brought To Atlanta To Face White Slave Charge

Andrew McClung, charged with violating the white slave act by transporting a woman from Atlanta to Birmingham, was returned to this city Friday by U. S. Deputy Marshal Ross Yarborough to stand trial before U. S. District Judge J. H. Brown. McClung is confined in Fulton Tower pending a hearing before Commissioner L. S. Ledbetter.

Marshall Yarborough and Guard E. F. Cox brought Paul H. Waters, charged with violation of the Mann act, to Atlanta in company with McClung and several other prisoners, and Friday night continued on to Raleigh, N. C., where Waters will be tried on charges that he took a 14-year-old girl from Dunn, N. C., to Birmingham.

Bryan Conway, who was convicted Tuesday in federal court at Anniston, Ala., on a charge of killing a soldier at Camp McClelland, in 1923, was brought to Atlanta Friday by Marshall Yarborough to begin serving his sentence of 18 years in the federal penitentiary.

Other prisoners brought to the penitentiary Friday by Marshall Yarborough were Fred H. Pagan, sentenced to 18 months on a charge of check raising, from Anniston; and Henry A. Brown, of Birmingham, sentenced to a year and a day for white slavery.

FOUR BANKRUPTCY PETITIONS FILED

William Capers Andrews, merchandise broker with offices in the Atlantell building, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States district court.

He cites liabilities of $14,573.14, with assets of $7,160 and claims exemption of $1,600.

Three other petitions were filed Friday in bankruptcy court: J. R. McCure, of Marietta, setting forth liabilities of $9,422.05 and assets of $5,517.81. He claims an exemption of $55.

Frank Williams Weaver, clerk, of Bolton, claims liabilities of $3,600.61 with no assets.

Walter L. Threadgill, farmer, living at Temple in Carroll county, said he owes $1,182.10 and has assets of $152, claiming exemption for the full $152 of assets.

A List of Good Things for Every Pantry Shelf

FOR every family in Atlanta to which mealtime is an occasion, Mrs. Duke has a story to tell. For she, too, is an epicure—and the most famous cook in the Carolinas. From her spotless kitchens come the Mayonnaise products which long ago captivated us. And now she brings to this city her three new products, delightful to all true Southerners, enjoyed to the uttermost by all of us who are gourmets.

Brunswick Stew of the Old South; Hoppin' John—that quaint, bland, "good luck dish"; Vegetable Soup such as has never before been offered to the public.

No housewife could possibly duplicate these delicious dishes at home for the same money. And because they are so simple to prepare—requiring only heating before they are set, appetizingly, on the table—they have already become popular in hundreds of Atlanta homes.

All Religious Intolerance Must Be Driven From Land, Upshaw Declares in Speech

"Plutocratic Legislation" Attacked by Georgian In Address Before Mechanics' Body.

Washington, November 6.—(Special.)—All forms of religious intolerance must be driven from the land if the United States is to endure, Congressman William D. Upshaw, of Georgia, declared today in an address to the national convention of the Junior Order, United American Mechanics.

The schoolhouse, the Bible and the American flag must be aggressively applied to overcome religious intolerance in all its forms, Upshaw asserted. "The Georgia attacked 'plutocratic legislation,' alien influences and national ignorance and pleaded for the shaking of the 'fetters' on the progress of the country."

"The most shocking crucifixion of the spirit of constitutional Americanism is religious intolerance in a land of religious freedom, whether manifested by Protestant, Catholic, Hebrew or Hindu, it is the same horror—the same unconstitutional—the same un-Christian—the same un-American thing," he said.

"The Protestant or Hebrew who is thus guilty is more incongruous than Catholic, for the very birth of Protestantism was a protest against the religious intolerance of the dark ages when the horror of the Roman inquisition claimed the right to regulate the religious faith of the world; and as for the intolerant Hebrew, God knows he has suffered enough persecution to make him tolerant of every other man who differs from him in religious faith."

"For instance, I was roundly criticized by a Protestant magazine in

12 PERSONS KILLED IN FLORIDA WRECK

Return of Rader For Big Revival In Spring Sought

Fort Pierce, Fla., November 6.—(AP) Twelve persons were injured, none seriously, when a southbound Florida East Coast passenger train and a freight train collided head-on three-quarters of a mile above Indrio, near here, this morning.

The accident is said to have been due to the non-delivery of orders to the passenger engineer, W. New Smyrna, informing him that the freight was heading north and would wait at Vero.

The engineers and firemen of both locomotives jumped. Engineer McCauley of the passenger train being the only one of the four injured, sustained serious injuries to the face, head and arms.

A freight car containing dynamite overturned but there was no explosion. The freight engine and one freight car were demolished, the first express car next to the engine of the passenger left the tracks and turned over.

'MERCEY MURDERER' IS PLACED ON TRIAL

Sorry—sorry—took enough poison to kill a horse."

First Witness on Stand.

J. J. Macken, coroner of Arapahoe county, was the first witness to be placed on the stand. He told of the finding of the body of the malnourished woman and of the subsequent inquest at which Blazer was blamed for her death.

Dr. W. S. Dennis, of Denver, a pathologist, who was present at an autopsy a week after the tragedy, said poison was found in her abdomen and that she had taken the chloroform that the father gave her could have brought on death.

The defense attorneys displayed only minor interest in the testimony of the preliminary witnesses. They will seek to deny that Blazer committed a crime, but rather will contend that she killed herself temporarily insane, and attempt to show that the killing of the deformed infant was justified.

Defendant Cool.

Blazer seemed cool and confident as the trial got under way. At recess he chatted with his long standing wife and her two children, character witnesses, for hours at a time with his wife and children. He listened attentively to all questions and answers.

The hundred seats in the courtroom were practically filled today, the first day the natives of the trial that days ago attracted national attention.

Two Notes Introduced.

When Dr. S. H. Aldridge, physician who called to attend Blazer, told the jury that he had seen evidence two notes found in the Blazer home. One read:

"Dear daughter: I am very weary and afraid—afraid of being taken suddenly and leaving Hazel. I know my blood pressure is very high. I made up my mind a great number of years ago I would not leave her behind. She is a burden, notwithstanding our love for her. I have never even been partially reconciled to your mother being taken away."

"With great love. DAD."

The other note, in part:

"Limiting Funeral Expenses.

"Don't pay undertaker more than $100 for casket and his services for the two of us. Either have the ashes interred or scatter them."

"DAD."

Dr. Aldridge said he thought Dr. Blazer had swallowed poison and gave him an antidote. He was called to the Blazer home at 2 o'clock the following morning and found Blazer lying in the bath tub with his throat slashed.

"Did you do it?" he asked Blazer. Blazer replied, "Yes," Aldridge testified.

Security experts will testify regarding Dr. Blazer tomorrow.

13 MIAMI PRISONERS WHO ESCAPED JAIL ARE STILL AT LARGE

Miami, Fla., November 6.—(AP) Thirteen prisoners who escaped from the Miami Jail last Saturday night are still at large.

The escape was discovered by Joseph Canley, floorman of the third floor of the jail, from where the prisoners fled. Canley and police were making his rounds, saw the hole in the ceiling and sounded the alarm. Deputies, however, were unable to trace the flight of the prisoners.

A general call to police and sheriff's organizations in and around Miami was sent out by Earl Egan, night jailer. Following deputies and police were dispatched to all outlying roads intersections and police of east coast were alerted to look for the escaped men.

BARE PLOT TO OVERTHROW RULERS

remained here for a few days, changing his appearance by various devices.

Later, it was noticed by the detectives that an accomplice of Zamboni had the habit of meeting General Capello, who has been arrested, charged with having a part in the plot. The meeting place usually was on the Cavours street, over the Tiber, where Capello always arrived in a public cab. They usually strolled about for a few minutes, and then Capello says, it is supposed that General Capello handed over money to the accomplice, who returned to Zamboni. The last time that General Capello met this man was on Tuesday, after which the general left immediately for Turin.

It was only on the eve of the armistice day celebration that Zamboni claimed his room in the Hotel Dragoni, which had been previously seized by an accomplice, and in which he was arrested. Later, it was learned that a room had been engaged not only in this, but two other hotels near by, and in which he was arrested. It was learned that a room had been engaged not only in this, but two other hotels near by, and in which he was arrested. It was learned that a room had been engaged not only in this, but two other hotels near by, and in which he was arrested.

More Arrests Made.

The semi-official Stefani Agency announced that some additional persons suspected of complicity were arrested today, but does not state how many.

Epoca denies the report that two plotters were arrested in Milan. The documents and papers which were seized from Zamboni's room as well as his apartment in Rome and the hotel in which he was arrested, have been examined by police judges. Nothing, however, has been made known concerning the contents.

Since Zamboni was taken into custody by authorities events have followed in quick succession. Five persons have been arrested thus far on the charge of complicity in the attempted assassination, the unitarian socialist party has been dissolved, the socialist organ Giustizia and the anti-fascist newspaper Lavoce Repubblicana have been suspended, and all the Masonic lodges, both in Italy and the colonies, have been occupied by the military.

The fascist authorities are keeping guards at the plants of all the opposition newspapers to prevent sporadic attempts at vandalism.

COOLIDGE SECRETARY ILL OF SINUS TROUBLE

Washington, November 6.—(AP) Everett Sanders, secretary to the president, is suffering from a slight attack of sinus trouble. He remained away from his desk most of today and announced he would take a 10-day rest before resuming his white house duties. He plans to make a trip from Washington but has not yet determined his destination.

DECATUR COMPLETES JOINT DRIVE PLANS

Witness Relates Story of Burning Of Missing Yacht

Decatur, Ga., November 6.—(Special.)—At a mass meeting held last night of Decatur county citizens interested in the three-way drive to be conducted throughout the county for funds for the Red Cross and for the Decatur library and for the sale of Stone Mountain memorial coins, plans were outlined for the meeting to be held next Monday night at 7:45 o'clock at the Decatur Methodist church.

The Red Cross is seeking $7,500, the library $3,500 and sale of coins is set at $3,000 and the campaign will get under way following the meeting Monday.

Dr. J. R. McCain, president of Agnes Scott college, spoke tonight on the great work done by the Red Cross and of the work in Decatur county by the special nurse furnished by that organization.

William Cole Jones, in a speech that was of great interest to those present, told of the invaluable service rendered community by a library and pointed out many uses to the county of the Decatur library.

Mrs. J. A. McCarty and J. Howell Grayson spoke on the memorial coin and stressed the importance of this county going over the quota set for it inasmuch as this is the home of the memorial.

Rev. H. O. Fowler, chairman of the fund campaign at Lithonia, spoke, as did J. E. Flaks, president of the Lithonia Chamber of Commerce, who pledged the chamber's aid in the drive.

Scottsdale, Stone Mountain and Arundale were also represented and Chambliss and East Atlanta reported that they were included in the drive.

J. Howell Greene is general chairman of the joint campaign.

West Coast Freight Rates on Fruit Held Unreasonable

Washington, November 6.—(AP) A rate schedule proposed last June by Pacific Coast railroads to revise rates applying to fruit and vegetables shipped from California to other Pacific Coast states and to Utah and Idaho, was held today by the interstate commerce commission to be unreasonable. Its cancellation was ordered and present rates will be maintained until further action.

The cancelled schedule has never been in effect, having been suspended at the time of its preparation. The decision today will not prevent other attempts by the roads concerned to revise the fruit and vegetable rates involved if such a revision is still held advisable.

ENGINEER STAGES ROBBERY OF BANK

said, "and it was just a question of which one. Federal officers were applying me for a $1,000 fine and $200 income tax payment I had failed to make. I thought I could get away with this and pay them off."

That the "phantom bandit," Fred Nickol, president of his own manufacturing concern.

Similar Nickel Case.

Nickol staged a daylight robbery of another branch bank and escaped with $22,800, but was captured a week later and also confessed. Here again pressure of business troubles and overpowering debts were given as the primary motives in the case. Both robberies were deliberately planned.

Nickol pleaded guilty and now is serving a ten-year sentence in the penitentiary.

On several occasions, Gabler has come to the notice of the Dayton police department, but never in a criminal way, except once when he was arrested for bootlegging. When Kloos gave his description to Inspector of Detectives Yendes immediately after the robbery, he was able to make such a close and detailed one that Yendes suspected Gabler and started his investigation in that direction.

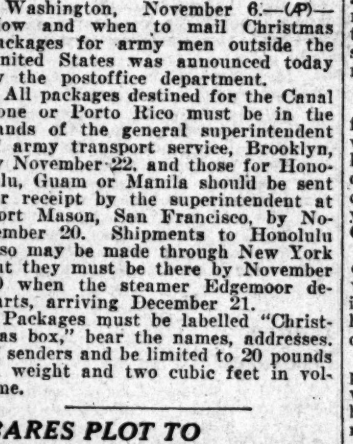

Dirty When Arrested.

When arrested, Gabler was dirty from the work of his hands, his hands were smeared in oil and grime, and he had the appearance of a mechanic. The Gem City Engineering company has been in operation several years, and is located in the rear of Gabler's home.

Federal officials tonight had not confirmed the statement of Gabler he was facing arrest for failure to pay his income tax. Police, however, say he has never made a return of his income.

Following his detailed confession to police, Gabler was taken to a cell, where he is awaiting his arraignment before municipal court authorities tomorrow morning.

Witness Relates Story of Burning Of Missing Yacht

Witness Relates Story of Burning Of Missing Yacht

Wilmington, N. C., November 6.—(AP) The Bunn II was burned to the water's edge and sank about 12 miles south of Murrell's Inlet, S. C., one mile off shore, on the afternoon of October 24 about 3 o'clock, according to Ben Small, of Brookgreen, S. C., an eyewitness to the burning. Small said that he heard an explosion and looking saw a boat he believed to be the Bunn II burst into flames. He said that it appeared that the explosion was from the gasoline tank as the fire spread rapidly. He stated that he believed all aboard were lost.

There were three men on board the yacht including Secretary of State William G. Taylor, of Delaware; Lewis Ross, of Fredericktown, Md.; and Edward R. Pusey, owner of the yacht. Small said that he did not see any sign of life and that he was sure no lifeboat had left from the burning craft.

He said that he could not read the name of the yacht but did see a rabbit on the bow, which it was later learned, compared with that of the Bunn II. Mr. Small said that shortly after the yacht had burst into flames a sailing vessel, No. 1014-M came up and circled around the sinking craft. After circling for a few moments he said the sailing vessel proceeded on its way.

CAMPBELL TO START AGAINST THE CITADEL TODAY

Harvard Meets Princeton in First 'Big 3' Clash

Cornell and Dartmouth, Nittany and Notre Dame Furnish Colorful Contests

New York, November 6.—(By FRANK GETTY.) From the depths of the Nassau jungle comes the awesome roar of the Tiger that scents its kill, and under the hospitable rooms of Princeton town old John Harvard stirs uneasily in his final rest before the combat.

In a few hours the chalked turf of Palmer stadium will be churned by the flying cleats of aspiring, perspiring athletes, locked in desperate struggle for victory in the first of the "big three" games of 1925.

Forgotten are the indifferent records made by the eleven of Princeton and Harvard this season. Cast to the winds are statistics of October defeats and disappointments. All the warmth and color and feeling that goes with this annual struggle of the Tiger and the Crimson are present in Princeton as game-time nears.

There is talk in Tigertown of establishing Bill Roper's men 2 to 1 favorites over Harvard. This is decidedly idle chatter.

Strange things happen in "big three" games; heroes unheralded hoist themselves up by their bootstraps and lead the underdog to unexpected victory; an indefinable something that is greater than gridiron skill comes into play.

Harvard, and Princeton, too, for that matter, will be whipped on by a fighting spirit which crops up when two of the "big three" get together, a spirit which neither coach nor experience can impart, and which makes football the game it is.

Princeton Given Edge.—On paper, where "big three" games never are decided, Princeton rates the stronger of the twin. Bill Roper's men are even said to be "pointing" for Yale on November 14, and to consider the Harvard game already in the bag.

With Captain McMillan, who is playing the best football of his career, shifted to center, the Tiger line sizes up as slightly superior to that of Harvard.

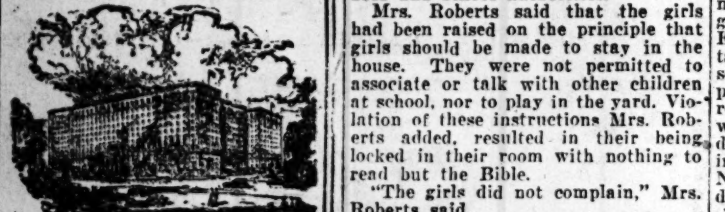

Jake Slagle, in practice the past few days, has shown a diversified attack from his position at right halfback, which augurs ill for the Princeton. The Princeton attack will be built up around Slagle.

Dignan, who will start the game at left half, probably is considered to have won the Princeton game last year. Harvard was defeated in a crushing 34 to 0 defeat sustained at the Tiger's claws in Harvard stadium last year. This was the worst defeat ever administered by one of these teams to the other.

With Captain Cheek, Crosby, Coady and Miller slated to start the game in the Harvard backfield, and a forward line that has been exulted, cajoled, threatened and cussed by an accumulation of Crimson coaches during the week, supporters of the Cambridge eleven are hopeful that the Tigers can be stopped. Special attention has been paid to meeting an aerial attack, as Harvard is expected to rely principally upon a passing game.

That kaleidoscopic clash of Red and Green up in the Hanover hills, resembling a traffic jam, and a forward line that has been exulted, cajoled, threatened and cussed by an accumulation of Crimson coaches during the week, supporters of the Cambridge eleven are hopeful that the Tigers can be stopped. Special attention has been paid to meeting an aerial attack, as Harvard is expected to rely principally upon a passing game.

Neither team has been defeated this season, and while the Green rules a strong favorite on the eve of battle, the odds are not as lopsided as they were last year.

ANSLEY PARK Cavaliers, Generals Meet In Conference Feature

New Orleans, November 6.—(By the Associated Press.)—Football games will be made and broken on many football fields in the south tomorrow. With the home stretch almost at hand, Dixie eleven have put just behind and are settled to serious consideration of the season's affairs. The day's card is dotted with interesting contests in every section.

Washington and Lee and Virginia, undefeated in the southern conference, meet at Lexington in a game that may have a bearing on the ultimate conference title. At any rate, it seems the game will pave the way for the championship battle of the Old Dominion to bear the emblem of the Cavaliers or Generals. The game seems even.

Georgia Tech, with nearly two-score players and hundreds of supporters, invades Nashville with the visitors determined to wipe a defeat suffered from Vanderbilt last season. The Commodores won last year with a field goal, but on paper were not due to repeat. Tech's heaviest artillery was taken for granted.

Georgia and Auburn, playing their annual game at Columbus, Ga., will have a close and hard fought affair if the history of years may be relied upon. It was taken for granted that one or the other would win by a touchdown. Official representatives of Georgia and Alabama were expected to add color to an already colorful affair.

Alabama was reported to have made careful preparations for a game with the Wildcats of Kentucky at Birmingham. The Crimson was expected to win, but by no such score as recorded last season.

'Gators Favored.
Florida should win handsily from Clemson at the South Carolina home of the Tigers, and the Mississippi Aggies should turn Mississippi college back at Starkville.

Sewanee and "Old Miss" entered a game at Chattanooga with little to choose between them apparently. Tennessee, on the face of returns from the game with Georgia last Saturday.

Jackson Stars as Decatur Beats Carrollton, 31 to 0
BY BEN COTHMAN.
Decatur added another victory to its string yesterday afternoon by running up a 31 to 0 score on Carrollton High at the Decatur High school stadium. The suburban team, was a big factor in Decatur's victory, scoring two of the five touchdowns made, and tearing up long gains on numerous occasions.

The Decatur team showed plenty of drive and speed, and the inexperienced Carrollton team was unable to put up any opposition. The visitors flashed a drive in the first quarter that netted them their only first downs of the game. The game was a hard fought one, but Decatur's line was too strong for Carrollton's.

Decatur's line played center last year, was shifted to fullback at the beginning of the season, and proved to be one of the best fullbacks in the city. He was kicking off, drop-kicking for the point after touchdowns, besides doing the greater portion of ball carrying. He also made the longest run of the day, when he tore around right end for 55 yards and the first touchdown of the game.

Decatur's entire backfield played a good game both on the offense and defense. Lyle, who was forced out of the game in the third quarter, was back in the game yesterday, and made several fine runs, in addition to his punting, which he handled in the most efficient manner. Lyle was sent down the field for a distance of 50 yards, which is a good distance for a prep school player.

Neither team scored in the first quarter, while Decatur scored two touchdowns in the second quarter, two in the third, and one in the final period.

Runs 55 Yards.
Jackson scored the first touchdown on his 55-yard run. The second touchdown came when Jackson intercepted a pass on Carrollton's 30-yard line, and ran it back for a touchdown. He was followed by a series of times and steady march down the field. Anderson, Decatur's new quarterback, bucked the ball over from the 12-yard line.

The goal line was the third of the game. Decatur's line was too strong for Carrollton's. ## CANTER WINS PIMLICO RACE

Baltimore, Md., November 6.—(AP) Canter won the Pimlico Futurity mile for two-year-olds, $40,000 added to the purse. The race was won by Canter, a colt by Green Backs, an imported silver foot ball was in the custody of M. J. Martin Behrman for presentation to Tulane as an appreciation from New Orleans citizens in recognition of the football team's victories.

North Carolina State vs. V. P. I., at Blacksburg and the University of North Carolina vs. V. M. I., at Richmond made a double attack by North Carolina in Virginia. Season's performances indicate an even break with the Wolf Pack back and the Flying Cadets falling before North Carolina. Possibilities of upsets, however, appeared in both games.

Maryland goes to New Haven to play Yale with hazy an outside chance but William and Mary was favored to defeat an eastern opponent, Albright of Pennsylvania.

Louisiana State players meeting Rice at Baton Rouge, went into the game with words of encouragement from the Red Granges and Buck Flowers in their ears. The governor summoned the L. S. U. players to the governor's mansion and gave them an inspirational talk this week.

Arkansas and Southern Methodist meet at Dallas in an effort to decide a tie of last year and Centenary plays Oklahoma teachers at Shreveport.

Citadel and Oglethorpe should have a battle at Atlanta but Furman was in a tussle over Mercer at Macon. Wake Forest should win handsily from Duke and Roanoke had the better of Richmond in forecasts. Southwestern plays Georgia Tech at Memphis.

The North Side Bulldogs won easily from the Emory Bulldogs at the Emory field last Wednesday, 42 to 6, and this gives them great encouragement for the coming battle.

The boys of these leagues are under 16 years old and weigh under 105 pounds. They are coached by gridiron stars of bygone days for the love of the game and the benefit of the coming generation.

Today's Schedule.
North Side Bulldogs vs. Briarcliff Tigers at O'Keefe.
Kinkeadys vs. Fighting 'Gators at Joe Brown field.
Atlanta Pacemakers vs. Emory Bulldogs at Emory.
Washington Street vs. Kirkwood Cabin Owls at Kirkwood.
Adair Park vs. South Side Terrors at Brisbane park.
Grant Park Tigers vs. Ormewood Bulldogs at Ormewood.

E. H. S. DEFEATED BY FRANKLIN

Oglethorpe Stock Rises With Return of Stars; Game Starts at 2 O'Clock

There was plenty of confusion and merriment out Peachtree way yesterday afternoon. The cause for the storm of joy and glad tidings was little "Natty" Campbell, speedy quarterback and mainstay in the Petrel backfield. He deserted an infirmary bed early Friday morning, ate a light lunch, donned his football togs and engaged in a light workout with his mates on Hermance field late Friday afternoon in the final workout before the annual tilt this afternoon at 2 o'clock on Spiller field between Oglethorpe, aspirants to the 1925 S. I. A. A. football championship and Citadel, challengers from South Carolina.

Campbell has been confined to the infirmary for the past five days with a high fever and Coach Robertson has been experiencing no little worry during the week over the possibility of Campbell's return to the Petrel lineup in time for today's game, and every change and combination possible has been made during the week in preparation for one of the hardest games on the Petrel schedule. Campbell's return Friday afternoon in the light workout was a complete surprise to the coach and students.

Several other Petrel stars who have been on the infirmary records for the past week were among those present at practice Friday afternoon with an affirmative answer of "ready to go." The Cousins and Justus who have put in just a limited number of minutes practice this week, because of minor injuries, went through a long afternoon's work Friday and will start Friday afternoon in the game.

LAGRANGE HIGH DEFEATS B. H. S.
LaGrange, Ga., November 6.—(Special.)—LaGrange High school remains undefeated tonight by victory of a 20-to-6 victory over Boys' High of Atlanta. The locals got off to an early lead, scoring a touchdown in the first few minutes of play and added the extra point.

In the second quarter McCleskey picked up a fumble on LaGrange's 35-yard line and raced 60 yards for a touchdown. LaGrange's only touchdown. Boys' High was unable to penetrate the LaGrange defense and was continuously punting. LaGrange had to resort mostly to the line for yardage, finding it difficult to circle ends. Albright, star half for the locals, was closely watched and found it difficult to gain on his end sprouts, but through the line he made neat gains.

To Jeff Bolden, local fullback, goes the honors of the game. On line plunges he could not be stopped, and in defense he was stopping plays for no gain.

Parks, Powers and Cassidy were the main factors in the LaGrange line. In Captain McCleskey and Colvin, Boys' High presented the best pair of ends seen at the local field this season. Both were breaking through, downing back backs for loss. McCleskey's punts also averaged good yardage. Winn and Ford were the principal ground-gainers. By virtue of this victory LaGrange has won 11 consecutive high school games in the past two seasons. LaGrange plays Greenville High Wednesday and Athens next Friday.

STUDENTS PRAY FOR FRESHMAN'S RECOVERY

BULLDOGS MEET TIGERS IN 30TH BATTLE TODAY

Georgia and Alabama Governors Will Attend; Bulldogs Seek 3 Straight

BY JULIAN GRIFFIN.
Staff Correspondent of The Constitution.

Columbus, Ga., November 6.—(Special).—The fact that it has happened 29 times before has nothing whatever to do with it. If Georgia had played Auburn several hundred times, the order of football battles would not be dimmed, for a Georgia-Auburn football game will ever remain a classic and "age cannot wither nor custom stale its infinite variety."

On the eve of the annual struggle for gridiron supremacy, Columbus is gaily decorated with colors of the two schools. Columbus has done this same thing many times before, but it is not regarded as a mere formality. The impatient atmosphere that always precedes an impending battle for blood is clearly in evidence.

Comparison Means Nothing.
Little does it matter that an expert's comparison of the two teams would give Georgia a victory by several touchdowns, possibly. Dope has pointed to such an outcome before, but a Georgia-Auburn game has always produced a close battle, a game that usually requires just one touchdown for victory.

Columbus is playing royal host to the thousands of fans who have brought hundreds of fans to the city. Supporters of both teams are here in large numbers to yell for the team of their selection.

Governor Clifford Walker, of Georgia, and Lieutenant Governor McDowell, of Alabama, will be on hand to add dignity to the event, which is marked by the reckless abandon of a college gathering.

Dances and many informal affairs are being staged in the city to entertain the visitors. The holiday spirit is in the air and Columbus—displaying an air of marked neutrality—seems to enjoy it best of all.

Columbus gives a bow to Georgia, a nod to Auburn and a smile to all. Mass meetings have been held at Auburn and similar gatherings have taken place at Athens. The students are bubbling over with keen anticipation of victory.

GOVERNORS INSPECT FOOTBALL

Columbus, Ga., November 6.—Governor Clifford Walker, of Georgia, and Lieutenant Governor Charles McDowell, of Alabama, arrived here tonight to attend the Georgia-Auburn game tomorrow.

Saturday morning they will make an inspection of Fort Benning. Brigadier Briant H. Wells having planned a two-hour firing demonstration in honor of their visit to the post. Members of the governor's staff of both states also are here.

number of ferocious Bulldogs from the classic city of Georgia arrived here today, and both teams were noticeably on edge.

Final workouts were held in the afternoon in both camps. Signal drills occupied most of the practice time, and the teams are keyed up.

On paper Georgia seems to be the stronger team. But Hollis, quarterback, and Thompson, captain and end, will be unable to see service for the Bulldogs. Then, too, the uncertainty of the Bulldog line must be considered, together with the fact that tradition demands a close game between these two ancient and honorable rivals.

Also it may be noted that during the extended period of competition neither team has won three years in succession. The Bulldogs have won the past two games. Whether this means anything will have been determined about 4 o'clock this afternoon.

STRIB ARRIVES FOR COOK FIGHT

Columbus, Ga., November 6.—(Special).—Stribling arrived in Columbus this afternoon for his scheduled bout with George Cook, Australian heavyweight, in the new municipal stadium Saturday night, following the annual Georgia-Auburn football game.

Stribling will not work out in Columbus prior to the match, according to J. H. Watson, advance man for the Georgia fighter. Stribling has been busy engaged in Atlanta preparing for the bout and is declared to be in tip-top form.

Cook has been here for several days and has created a very favorable impression among followers of the fight art. He asserts that there is no doubt about the outcome. "I will win," is his confident prediction.

On the other hand, word from the Stribling camp is equally definite in forecasting another victory for the high school lad.

With the Georgia-Auburn game slated to bring thousands to the city Saturday, officials of the local post of the American Legion, which is promoting the scrap, are expecting a record crowd even for a Stribling fight. Advance sales have been highly satisfactory and it is anticipated that $8,000 will be this meeting, which will be apt to figure prominently in the future careers of the principals.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., November 6.—(Special).—Twenty-five varsity men left here this afternoon for Birmingham where they play Kentucky Saturday, and 23 freshmen players left for Rome, Ga., where they play the Georgia Rats Saturday. The frosh making the trip to Rome are: Revere, McCracken, Ellis B. Smith, Taylor, Hagler, Skidmore, Shadow, Pearce, M. Smith, Cuthbert, Adams, Sanford, Clepper, Moss, Kendrick, McNeil, Hurst, Prather, Muse, Hudgens, and Wadsworth. This will be the fourth game for the freshmen.

Victories against the Birmingham Southern, Tulane and Georgia Tech freshmen have already been registered.

The Crimson varsity left here with two regulars injured from Thursday's scrimmage against Kentucky players. Barnes and Winslet are not apt to start the game because of these injuries, with Gillis and Red Brown slated to take their places. Hudson, who will be back at the varsity positions Saturday after a rest of 10 days, Coach Wade stated upon his departure that Kentucky's heavy line and powerful running backfield would prove lots of trouble Saturday. An extremely close play contest is expected.

The Tide will enter the game slightly rejuvenated from the eleven that started last Saturday against Mississippi and M. New plays have been taught the Crimson's defense, and a sterling defense against Kentucky players, as brought back to the Cape Fear by Coach Russ Cohen, has been worked out.

The Crimson's faltered quite a bit last Saturday against the Aggies and Coach Wade has worked all this week getting the youthful griders back to the form shown against Georgia Tech. With Florida and Georgia following the Kentuckians, Coach Wade realizes only too well that his Crimson "even cannot have any more off days if it expects to come home in front of the field this year."

Alabama is not already claiming another championship, but everyone here, according to all reports received here, and its backfield is one that is apt to cope on almost even terms with that of Alabama. It will be a game of thrills in Birmingham Saturday, as both teams employ an open attack, with passes and end runs.

Kentucky has a veteran team with one of the heaviest lines in the country, according to all reports received here, and its backfield is one that is apt to cope on almost even terms with that of Alabama. ## Tech Must Watch Reese And Spears; Many Students Accompany Yellow Jackets

BY JOHN STATON,
Special Correspondent of The Constitution.

Nashville, Tenn., November 6.—(Special).—Nashville is awakening, as the hour draws near, to the fact that an important contest is impending. Stores and windows are gaily bedecked with a flourish of color. The Gold and Black is blended with the Gold and White as a symbol of intimate rivalry.

The people of Nashville, that is, those who are interested in football, have worked themselves into a peculiar state of mind.

They concede, quite frankly, that Tech will win by two or three touchdowns, yet lurking behind this bland confession, each inwardly believes that Vanderbilt will triumph. It is a fact that "Wandy" supporters are outwardly more convinced of a Tech victory than the Tech supporters themselves.

Tech men, by twos and threes, have been filling into the hotel all day long. The principal influx will, of course, come in the morning when the special trains arrive. A great many men, nevertheless, have chosen to come earlier and watch the crowd form.

When the game begins tomorrow afternoon, 500 or 1,000 Tech men, staunch and loyal supporters, will be in the stands to cheer the "Yellow Jackets" on to victory. Only a light workout was held this afternoon. Doug Wycoff in spite of his injury; Dick Wright, and later Sam Murray, punted, while several backfield men received.

Jackets Keyed Up.
Following the preliminaries a brisk signal drill was held, followed by a session at forward passing.

The Tech team this afternoon had all the pep. The team is worked up to a light, keen edge that bespeaks ill for Vandy. There was not the slightest trace of sluggishness in any of the movements of the machine. Snap, drive and perfect coordination featured that workout. A signal, briskenly called, was briskly executed. It was one of those workouts which the most conservative coach would term "eminently satisfactory."

One item, of no great consideration, is the condition of the field. A steady rain fell through the night Thursday, and completely saturated the turf.

Underneath this coating of turf is a pernicious muck. It is mud which sticks to the shoes like glue. Its effect is cumulative and the more one walks in the mud the heavier become his shoes. If the town is favored with a shower, during Saturday day the field will be in excellent shape, dry enough to be just giving up no dust.

Another rain, or continued cloudy weather, will force Tech to put on mud cleats. This inevitably slows down the composite speed of the whole team. Everyone, of course, is hoping that the sun will shine. With a fast field, Tech can rise to its full potentialities.

Lineup, Uncertain.
There is still a great deal of uncertainty as to who will start the game. Coach Bill Fincher demands unflinching, unflinching effort of his men. He is greatly impressed by the performance of more than one of his reserve linemen last Saturday. They gave him their all every play of the game, and Bill Fincher appreciates that more than a fine display of mechanical perfection.

Coach Alexander, too, is confronted with quite a problem. Wycoff is in best condition. If he plays, and is injured, he will not be able to start.

Kirkwood Shoots 68; Gives Exhibition of Trick Shots

BY GEORGE CONGDON.

Joe Kirkwood, famous Australian trick shot, can do more stunts with golf ball than Red Grange can do with a football, and thereby, possibly, less the story of the 68 he shot at East Lake Friday afternoon, with eight threes in eighteen holes, as he and Charlie Black, Jr., beat Atlanta's ponies, Watts Gunn and Gene Cook, six up and five to play in an exhibition outcome.

In fact, Joe Kirkwood did do more stunts with golf ball in the match than in his lecture and exhibition afterwards than a careful of monkeys could possibly think of doing with a ball of coconuts. When he finished his exhibition, the gallery was left with mouths open at the manner in which he hopped stymies with abandon, and exceeding accuracy, the last which he played on his program.

Unfortunately, the gallery was not so lucky. If every golfer in Atlanta would have tramped the acres of East Lake Friday to see it, if Joe Kirkwood ever comes within 50 miles of where we are in the future, only a few and high water will keep us away from his exhibition.

Charlie Black, Jr., shooting the best golf he has shown East Lake since in months, had a 77, and a 79, while Charlie won a hole of two with his best ball, Kirkwood, shooting eight threes, and Gunn and Cook at 20 and 30 feet for some of his stunts and the others he got by second shots dead to the pin and three four feet away.

Cook turned in a 76 for the 18 holes, which were played out, even for the Gunn-Cook side. Kirkwood was a total loss. Gunn, runner-up to Bobby Jones in the national amateur, had the worst card, a 79, and how many golfers there are around East Lake daily who wouldn't have conniptions over such a score! The gallery that saw Kirkwood's exhibition was much larger than that which followed the foursome over the course. Kirkwood began his list of stunts with ordinary, or rather extraordinary, driving with woods and irons. Then he showed the hook and slice and their causes. Next he took up high and low flights and finished off the long shooting exhibition "knocking golf ball off a man's nose, off the end of a club three feet above the ground, off an optimistic amateur's watch and finally off the corner of his golf bag."

The putting exhibition consisted of jumping stymies and curving the ball around them. He finished his exhibition with the prize shot of his life. He hit the ball on the side of a bunker 20 feet from the green and, with his back to the green, slashed the ball from the lower side of the hole, pitching it high in the air over a head and on the green.

Shot Five Birdies.
In the course of five of Kirkwood's stunts were birdies, and he had a sixth hole with a four on No. 14. All the other birdies of the match were three by Cook and one shot by Black.

Both Kirkwood and Cook had birdies on the first hole. Cook sank a 30-foot putt and Kirkwood ran down the hole with his third. The stymie was even through the third hole and on the fourth Black shot a par, as Kirkwood and Cook hooked air drives and Gunn took three putts, and gave the winning team its first lead.

The fifth was halved, but on the sixth, seventh and eighth holes Kirkwood named his third shot and put his team four up. Three putts all around gave the other three four strokes on the par three third, while Kirkwood got down his second putt. On No. 7 Kirkwood pitched his second putt thirty feet from the pin and ran down his putt, while the others took two putts apiece. On No. 8, Kirkwood's second was two feet from the pin, while all the others took three to get on.

Cook cut the lead of Kirkwood and Black three up on No. 9, which he made a fine recovery on his second after a hooked tee shot, pitched to 15 feet of the pin and sank his putt for a birdie, four. The others took three to get on.

Kirkwood's last three were on the par three eighteenth, where Black and Gunn also had birdies. Kirkwood and Cook shot fours, for threes, and Gunn was down in five for a par hole.

GRiffin BOWS TO GAINESVILLE

This was the best game seen here this year and the Griffin team played the game to the last whistle but was never downed.

Sportively Speaking
By H.C. HAMILTON
Hoping, Not Predicting.
Red Grange Slow?
Walk Gets Suspended.

WE TURN our eyes and our hopes towards Nashville today and listen for the dull sickening thud which will denote the bumping off of either Vanderbilt or Georgia Tech. Meanwhile we bend an attentive ear to the south and listen for something to break when Georgia meets Auburn.

The facts in the case point only to Tech and Georgia victories but they have pointed to other things which did not take place, so we leave the matter to others. Auburn didn't lack a bit had a week ago against the strong Tulane squad, while Vanderbilt won its game against Mississippi.

COACH ALEXANDER probably will keep Doug Wycoff on the sidelines today unless the powerful captain is healed very badly. The rest of the varsity squad, however, probably will be put to work after having taken last Saturday off. If they do any better than the so-called second-string men did against Notre Dame they will win their football game, for the second-stringers acted and looked like a real football team, lacking only in signal perfection.

Small talk is being made by Tech supporters regarding their expectations. They hope and believe Tech will win, but they are making themselves no promises since the powerful Tarboro was turned to a gentle breeze by Alabama.

AS WE dash off these words of wisdom we learn from a news dispatch that Captain John J. McEwen, coach at West Point, is not trying to get Red Grange to become a student at West Point because he "would slow up the Army backfield."

My word! That backfield could have stood some of that sort of slowing up last Saturday when Yale ran all over the Cadets. John had better find himself a new timer or go watch Red do some slow running himself. Or he might ask Pennsylvania.

THE same telegraph wire relates the sad story of Walk Miller, the Atlanta box-fight promoter and manager, who was slapped on the wrist in New York, declaring his belief that Jack Delaney carried a gim-dick in his glove the night he polished off Tiger Flowers, the dusky middleweight whom Miller had developed into a meal ticket of no mean proportions. The New York boxing commission came to life with vigor sufficient to suspend Miller indefinitely. The charge was made last spring.

The only thing we can suggest to Walk as a way out of his difficulty is to have himself a dictionary printed containing the word gim-dick and describing a gim-dick as a four-leaf clover.

WHEN Walk first broadcast his charge he intimated in rather unmistakable language that a gim-dick was much the same as a sap, a set of brass knuckles or a plain, ordinary short piece of gas pipe. Many followers of boxing throughout this broad land have attempted to explain what a gim-dick is, but none of them agreed in view of this unprecedented disagreement over the meaning of a word it should be easy for Walk to change his mind about it, tell the boxing commission he is only fooling, that a gim-dick in reality is nothing to get up a head of steam about, and get himself reinstated.

It seems to be allowed among box-fighters to insinuate that the other guy had a horseshoe in his glove, and Miller should confine himself to words which are perfectly understood by people. Now when you say a horseshoe was in his glove, everyone knows what you mean and forget next day, but when you say a gim-dick you have said something to get printed in the newspapers, and that was where Walk made his mistake. Publicity was the one thing he didn't want right then, although it probably was the first time in his life.

MARIETTA BOWS TO CEDARTOWN
Cedartown, Ga., November 6.—(Special).—Cedartown High defeated Marietta High here today, 6 to 0, in a hard-fought game. Edwards, went over the goal for Cedartown. Young and Wood starred for Cedartown, while Gifford and Mines starred for Marietta. This gives Cedartown seven straight wins with no defeat and claim on north Georgia championship.

COACH INGWERSON IN PRAISE OF BUCKEYES
Before departing from Columbus, Ohio, Coach Bert Ingwerson took exception to the rumor that has been circulated in some quarters concerning the injury of "Cowboy" Kutach.

In the Ohio State-Lowa game. "He was not knee nor was he intentionally hurt," said the Hawkeye mentor. "He has a bruised hip and thigh, but that is all, he added. "None of the Ohio State men played a dirty game. They are clean athletes, inspired by an upright gentleman, Dr. Wiley."

S. I. A. A. TEAMS IN TITLE GAMES

New Orleans, November 6.—(Special).—Two games with a possible bearing on the championship of the Southern Intercollegiate association will be played tomorrow. Oglethorpe plays the Citadel at Atlanta and Furman meets Mercer at Macon. When Oglethorpe defeated Citadel, supporters of the Petrels regarded the victory as equivalent to an unofficial championship. A victory for the Charleston end tomorrow would upset all calculations.

Furman has gone through its season with a slate marred only by a 21 to 0 reverse at the hands of Georgia. The Hornets' victories include a 7 to 0 decision over Citadel and Citadel in turn defeated Mercer 1 at Saturday 16 to 0.

After the Citadel game, Oglethorpe meets Presbyterian College of South Carolina, Mercer, Chattanooga and Rollins in order while the Mercer game is Furman's last. S. I. A. A. contest. Should Oglethorpe go through its schedule undefeated the Petrels will be generally favored as the S. I. A. A. titleholder on the basis of a schedule that contained originally nine games in the association in which Oglethorpe holds membership.

Furman's schedule included only four S. I. A. A. teams but a victory over Mercer and defeat of Oglethorpe by the Citadel tomorrow would give the South Carolinians a talking point.

JOANNA

BY H. L. GATES

JOANNA, a modern shop girl, paragon of living alone, is summoned to the office of Graydon, owner of the department store where she is employed, and given a letter addressed to her in care of the store. The letter informs her that $1,000.00 has been deposited to her account in Graydon's bank by a benefactor who provides that his name shall be revealed to her. No conditions are attached to the gift, and Joanna is told that she may do with the money as she wishes. Neither Graydon, who is a great financier, nor Graydon, will advise her. Joanna meets Brandon, a nephew of Graydon. He exerts a strange influence over her and she at times is afraid of him. She becomes devoted to him. She knows instinctively that Brandon is setting a trap of some kind for her. Joanna is "thunderstruck" when she meets the suspicious of all her crowd, the other shop girls and her friends, who will not believe that she actually received a fortune from an unknown man. Desperately she turns to John, her school-day sweetheart, who is also poor, and studying to be an architect. John is suspicious and resents her, accusing her of having fallen to the level of her too short skirts, her flattered lips and cigarettes. Broken-hearted by John's unjust suspicions Joanna cries valiantly to Graydon some inkling of the reason for the gift to her by the unknown benefactor. She will not work for John, and confides to her chum George, another shop girl, that John will come to her. She decides to accept the attention Brandon showers upon her—perhaps, she concludes, he will be of more value in opening up her new career than John. With Brandon she has her first glimpse of the life she has always yearned for—at a fashionable supper club. Here she meets Yvonne, the most noted beauty of the day, and feels the exhilaration of money and what it means. Yvonne, a beautiful, mysterious woman of the world, with whom Joanna is familiar, also meets "Tedd" Kendall, a man much older than Joanna, who declares to Joanna his interest in love to her. As Kendall's predicted Yvonne asks Joanna to become her protegee, promising to help her in any way to make use of her money and to have the sort of pleasure she has always wanted.

INSTALLMENT XXII.

"You said absolutely nothing of the sort, or spoke of any fact whatever," Pendleton gravely assured him.

"Perhaps I didn't," Teddy admitted. "But I thought it, and meant to say it. So Miss Manners will consider that I did."

Here the woman Yvonne had called Mrs. Marks interjected: "If she sees much of you, Teddy, she probably will have enough to remember of what you actually do say, without being bothered with what you merely think."

"Don't alarm her, please!" Lord Teddy exclaimed, "no woman ever remembers anything I say to her."

"They don't dare, perhaps," Pendleton observed.

"Both you and Doris," Teddy began, and broke off. "Pendleton and Doris," he said again, "that brings me back to my clever thing. Listen, every one: Pendleton and Doris Marks, whenever I come upon Pendleton here at Yvonne's I come upon Doris Marks. Pen-marks! Isn't that clever? Pen-marks! What? It was only Lord Teddy himself who laughed, and it was not long before Lord Teddy had skillfully maneuvered Joanna from the stone table in the winter garden into a tete-a-tete corner of the drawing room. "Never could stand Pendleton, you know," he confided to her when he had held a flame for her cigarette. "Can't see what Doris sees in him, or he in her, for that matter. Can you?"

"Is that how it is?" Joanna inquired. "You see everybody's fresh news to me, now. I have to wait for signs." Lord Teddy eyed her intently. She felt singularly at ease with this exuberant young man. She laughed at him brightly when he protested:

"Oh, really, now! You mustn't pretend that. I'm dreadfully dumb when a young woman declares that she doesn't know everything! It's never true these days, you know, and it's a lot jollier to not make believe!"

"I'll admit," she agreed, "that anything I don't know hurts. I've tried not to miss anything, but I have, a lot. So there's still a chance for you to do a bit of teaching. You may start with Mr. Pendleton and—was it Mrs. or Miss Marks. What was wrong about your Pen-marks?"

"Do you know," he observed, moving from his chair to a place closer to her on the divan into which she had settled, "I'm going to be terribly fond of you before long."

"Yes, I'm sure of that," she informed him. "I can see the signs. Anyhow, teachers always are, aren't they? But you were saying?"

"About Pen-marks? It's Mrs. Marks, of course. You'll probably see the other part of her tomorrow night? You'll be here, won't you?"

"I'll probably be here, but I don't know what's happening. Is it what ever you thought a while ago I might be coming to sing or dance for? I must find out yet what you think specially about singers and dancers."

Yvonne's giving something or other: usual thing. Doris will be on deck with her husband; he's not a bad sort, but a bit empty. She and Pen will be miserable trying to keep up appearances. It's beastly, of course, for anybody to have husbands and wives about, but these two moon about it so openly they're delightful."

"Is he married, too?"

"Profoundly! He has to be more surreptitious than any husband I know. You'll be fearfully amused by the two of them. Pen and Doris, when you're used to them. They're always about some place for tea. That's why I really was clever, you know!"

"And it doesn't make any difference to anybody? To their friends, like

Miss Contant, and people who know of the husband and wife."

Lord Teddy examined the girl beside him deliberately. He noted all the distinguishing patterns of her. His eyes dwelt particularly, for an instant that barely could have been measured, on a smartly silken knee, hardly yet escaped from the angular sharpness that is youth—but threatening to come out altogether from within the confines of a modishly meager dress. His glance, sweeping upward in its lightning appraisals, hovered joyously upon her mouth, that was almost round because of the full, scarlet curving of the lower lip and the deep, perfect bow of the upper one—a splash of color as if someone had crushed a red rose there. She knew what he was doing. She felt his eyes wherever they rested. Not a muscle of her twitched, but she was conscious of an exquisite thrill of satisfaction with herself. The knee had never before, upon such an occasion—and why were skirts worn short and lips shaped like round rose buds, and a gown fashioned so carefully, if not for open consideration?—the knee had never been so beautifully sheathed in a silk so perfect, and the lips never so deftly toned and balanced.

When he was satisfied of his observations, which occupied hardly more than a brief hesitation, Lord Teddy moved closer on the cushioned divan—only the knee, which was crossed and pointed his way, halted him. His voice, when he spoke, was little above a murmur.

"Please," he pleaded, "don't let us pretend. It's much nicer not to, really. You do it splendidly, but you couldn't be wholly successful. When a woman has had so much experience, old enough, you know, so that a man knows there's nothing new under either the sun or the moon for her, then she has to pretend that she hasn't yet learned that everything is what it is and not what's in copy books. If she didn't she'd be too forbidding, so we know she's serious about it. But when a lovely girl makes believe she doesn't understand everything and everybody we know she's just mocking. Because she thinks she does, anyway. Don't you?"

Joanna regarded him elaborately, frankly imitating his own examination of her moment before. "Yes," she said, her inscrutable smile playing upon him. "Then you have a way with you—as a teacher. I suppose you're a diploma, or some good reference, or thinks like that?" His ready laughter bubbled through his mask of seriousness.

"Only experience, my lovely Joanna," he said, finding her hand among the cushions and taking possession of it with both of his own. "My experience will have to be your guide, and yours my ambition. When he finished he gave her limp, fragile fingers a confidential pressure, and looked into her own shining eyes with a deep smoulder in his. She seemed to be unconcerned about her hand. She even moved her knee, a little, to help him cut down the space-between them. She said, then:

"We seem to be making a bargain of some sort. When you happen to think about it, tell me what it is, won't you? The best I can get out of it is that you want to be a guide and you're ambitious of some kind. I like ambitions tremendously. It's so much fun flattening them out!"

"Yes," he admitted. "You'd flatten out almost anybody, I should imagine. You wouldn't be afraid of missing anything. That's why I'd like it awfully if—" She nodded at him. "I know," she finished for him. "If I'd give you my other hand, too, and let you fill up the rest of the distance between us. Then you could tell me just how pretty you think I am, and how you've always been crazy about hair like mine and you'd like to run your fingers through it, and maybe you'd have something new along that line that I'd never heard before and then you'd end up by saying I was just made for somebody to love a lot and you're somebody. Have I forgotten anything?"

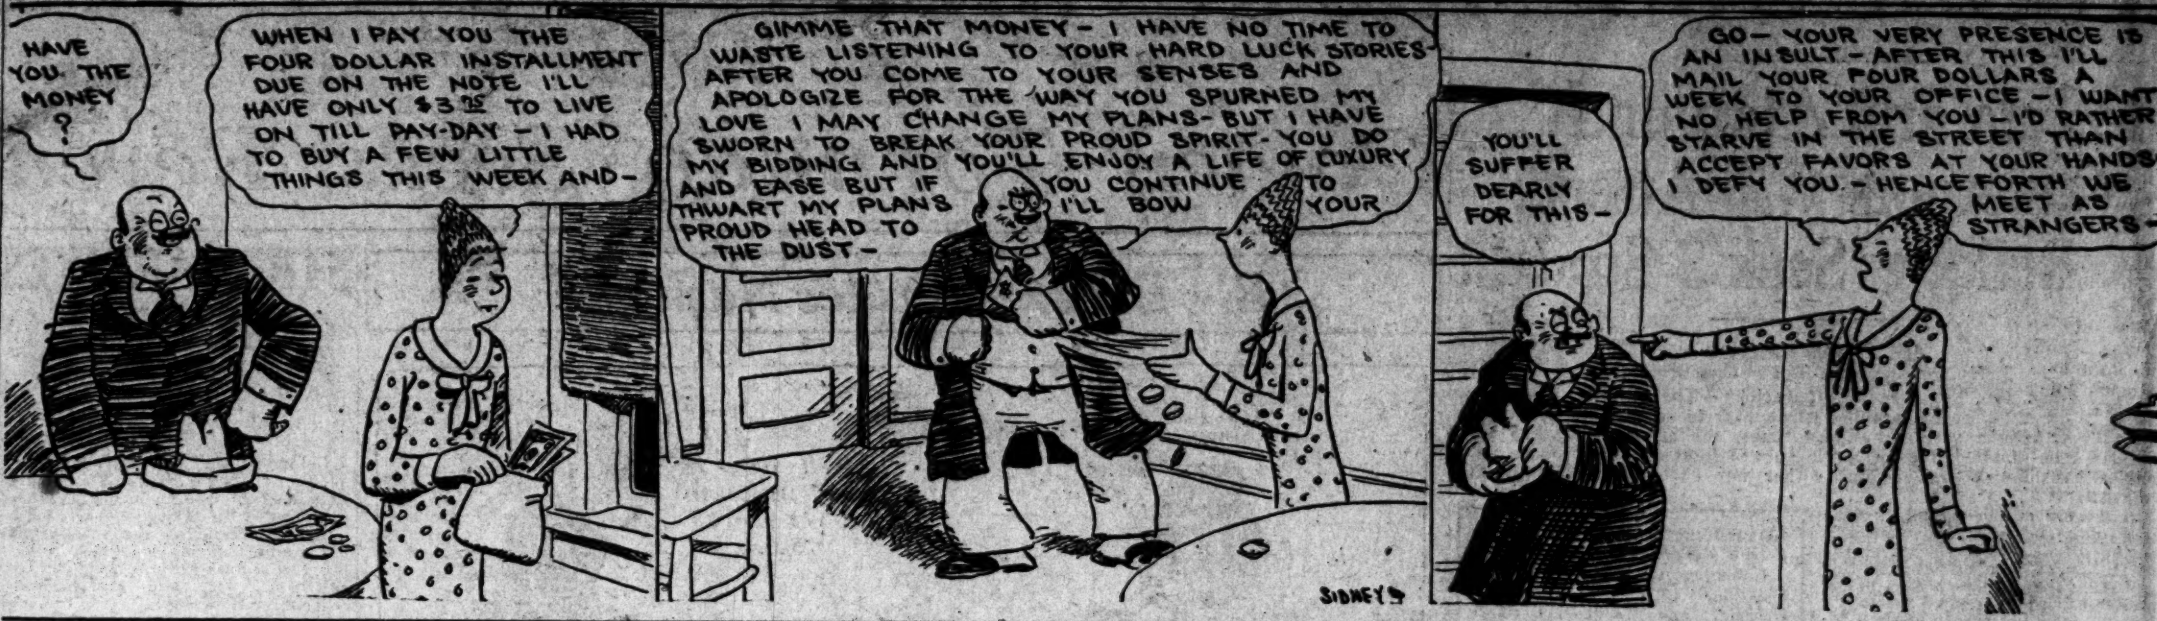

"Not a thing," he declared. "When do we begin?"

This time they laughed together buoyantly. Joanna decided she was going to enjoy this fair haired, ebullient young man whose chief aim in life, according to Yvonne, was consoling neglected wives. "He was amazingly handsome, as easily read to her—as an open book, and she was convinced, utterly harmless. Yvonne's picture of him puzzled her. She concluded he would be easily in his thirties, but already she was becoming accustomed to older men than her "dancing boys" had been. John always had appeared older to her than any of the other chaps she knew, although he wasn't in years. She was astonished, secretly, at her own ability to be interesting to men who must have served many apprenticeships at more dazzling shrines than hers.

She was still disturbed by that ready supposition of his at their sudden meeting earlier in the afternoon. She reminded him of it again, and declared that she wouldn't be satisfied with him until he had made satisfactory explanations. He was not abashed.

WAS NOT FIT TO DO HER WORK

Dreadful Condition of Mrs. Fullerton's Health Remedied by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Clearfield, Pa.—"I cannot begin to tell you how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me in every way. Before taking it I couldn't stand on my feet without pains running all through my whole body from my waist down, just like threads pulling. I was not fit to do any work. My mother got me to try the Vegetable Compound and I have found great benefit, and I not only recommend it for such troubles, but to build up the whole system. I have used it for most everything that gets wrong with me. When I begin to feel nervous and irritable I don't stop long in getting a bottle of the Vegetable Compound if I haven't got one in the house. It gives a fine appetite and makes a new woman of me. You may use this testimonial in my own town or anywhere else, and I will answer any letters I receive."

Mrs. RUSH FULLERTON, 525 S. 2nd Street, Clearfield, Pa.
"If you are suffering from nervous troubles, irritability, give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial."

Apple Pie

A good cook who makes her pie crust with Snowdrift and says that Snowdrift is an excellent shortening for pie crust makes her apple pies this way. It's delicious apple pie.

First line a pie-plate with the crust; strew this with a tablespoon of fine dry bread or cracker crumbs and dot with a half tablespoon of Snowdrift. Then fill with the sliced apples which should be mixed with a generous quarter cupful of sugar to each cupful of fruit. Sprinkle with another tablespoon of crumbs, add a teaspoonful of Snowdrift and put on the top crust. Put in a hot oven and as soon as crust has begun to brown a little reduce the heat so that the fruit can cook slowly and thoroughly.

BEAUTY CHATS BY EDNA A. FORBES

OUTLINES. For the last two years we have been very lucky in the way of clothes. Long straight lines have been the fashion, with all dresses as slim as possible. You could not go far from the straight line, your only danger has been in getting your skirt too long or too short. Now the inevitable reaction has set in. Women could see nothing back, the newest frocks are nipped in quite a bit to emphasize the flare that almost every new skirt is showing.

A fitted style is a dangerous style. For it means a broken outline and only the woman of genius knows how to carry this off. A woman with fat hips and a flared skirt looks twice as large as she need look. A full skirt is only becoming in contrast to a slender waist and body; if you have fat hips, your only danger has been in getting your skirt too long or too short. Now the inevitable reaction has set in. Women could see nothing back, the newest frocks are nipped in quite a bit to emphasize the flare that almost every new skirt is showing.

THROWN 46 FEET ON PILE OF ROCK CHILD MAY DIE

Nashville, Tenn., November 6.—(AP) Flipped 20 feet into the air and landed on a pile of rocks, a young boy was killed today when he was playing Thursday afternoon, spun suddenly on his side because of a slight jolt. The child was 8 years old and was believed to be dying of a crushed skull and other injuries.

The child was on the end of the tongue of the trailer, parked on a vacant lot near his home, when the big wheels, which act as a support for hundreds of pounds of telephone cable, suddenly slipped into a small ditch five or six inches deep. The bulky cable suddenly overbalanced the vehicle.

It was then that his tongue, about 15 feet long, became a giant flipper and the little boy for its ammunition and shot into the air. Workmen nearby saw the child catapulted against the pile of rocks. The boy was taken to St. Thomas hospital where the doctors entertain practically no hopes for recovery.

Shean Is Elated When Court Denies Chapman Appeal

Hartford, Conn., November 6.—"Dutch" Anderson was killed last week in Michigan and Gerald Chapman will hang early next month in Connecticut.

The deaths of these two bandits at the hands of the law will prolong the life of Walter Chapman, who was sentenced to hang for the killing of Patrolman William J. Shean, a result of a fight that resulted in Chapman's sentence to hang. During the Chapman trial here it was the general expectation that Chapman would be hanged either by Chapman or his pal, Anderson.

Thus, when Shean, serving a light sentence, was advised Friday that Chapman would be among the number of other subjects to be considered by the various speakers on the program.

TUG GOES TO AID OF "CITY OF ROME" AS LEAK THREATENS

New York, November 6.—A tug has been ordered to the assistance of the passenger steamer City of Rome, reported by wireless to the directing office here to have sprung a leak while off the Delaware breaker. The report from the captain of the Savannah said the leak was slight. The steamer, bound from Savannah to Boston, had on board about 15 cabin passengers.

The tug which left New York last night, will aid in pumping water from the ship's hold. The line's officials expected the City of Rome then would be able to continue to Boston under its own power.

It was explained that temporary repairs had been made to the ship after its collision on the night of September 26 with the submarine. The City of Rome was to remain anchored off the Delaware breaker, waiting for the tug to arrive at the tug.

New York, November 6.—(AP)—An opening decline in the cotton market was followed today by an advance into new high ground for the movement of a renewal of recent buying. January contracts sold up from 19.01 to 19.10 or 36 points a pound higher and more than two cents a pound above the recent low level.

They later reacted to 19.75 but recovered several points of the loss, closing at 19.88, the general market closing steady, five points higher to 20 points lower.

The opening was barely steady at an advance of one point on December, but generally 8 to 20 points lower. Active months sold 17 to 22 points below yesterday's closing figures in early trading. Apparently some quarters believe prebure covering had run its course at the close of the previous day and some selling was prompted by relatively easy Liverpool cables. On the whole, however, offerings were restricted by continued wet weather and the south and early pressure subsided, prices turned upward on numerous crop complaints from the southwest.

These reports seemed to increase uncertainty with reference to the showing of the approaching government report, although it will give crop prospects only to the first of November. Buying also was promoted by reiterated reports of a better demand for the low grades. December contracts sold up to 19.85 and March 20.40, net advance of about 23 to 27 points on the active positions. Demand then appeared to have been fairly well supplied, and sharp reaction occurred in later trading, although the

"The Pacemakers," another picture, is being shown in the same program.
